CHAPTER 6

Conclusion and Further Research

6.1 Conclusion

1. Application is able to solve the PERT diagram project management.
2. This application have structured enumeration method with iterations to process kode and predecessor as the reference.
3. The end result of this application is true. So, this application can be use to help in managing project, and can get the arranged project.

6.2 Further Research

This application can help user to arrange the project management activities list. However this application has a weakness on iteration if processing more than three iteration. So, the node that on 4th iteration or more cannot be shown. And this application can't give the solve of project management to get decision with the result that must be added.

In further developmental, the application can be processing more than three iteration. May the program that processed can be flexible.