5.1 Conclusion

Based on the analysis above, the writer concludes that the writer found 65 jargon words of Christian community. The writer found the jargon words from the result of sermon transcripts and some found from interviews, because in Christian jargon, sometimes one jargon is related to another, so the writer could also find new jargon words.

As a result, the writer found 65 Christian community jargon words. Those are the jargons that the writer could find based on the transcribed sermons and also from interviews. According to the original words, Indonesian and Greek origins are the majority because those languages are directly interpreted in the Bible and directly applied in Christians' daily lives.

According to the word formations, borrowing and coinage are the majority because most of Christian jargon words are borrowed from other languages and inventing new words that make Christian jargon words are not easy to understand. This is due to the fact that the Christian Theology is originally from Jewish's belief.
5.2 Suggestion

The research of jargon words used in a Christian church community could increase the readers' knowledge or Christian jargons. Nevertheless, the writer hopes that there will be further development of this research in the future. The phenomenon of Christian community jargons can be an interesting study to conduct. It is because the people may get some new knowledge in Christian jargons that they can use in their daily lives as Christians.
