

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter shows the conclusion of the analysis data that already interpreted in the previous chapter. The data that had been collected by the writer collected from the questionnaire and the interview. Moreover in this chapter, the writer also gives suggestion for further research.

5.1 Conclusion

The respondents considered shows a positive attitude towards Bataknese language maintenance if the mean and variable frequencies of the descriptive statistics is more than 2.5, it shows the respondents' positive attitude towards Bataknese language maintenance, whereas, if the mean and variable frequencies is less than 2.5, means that the respondents shows negative attitude towards Bataknese language maintenance. Analysis were based on competency and maintenance effort. The first analysis shows the average mean of the data is 2,204413. The second analysis shows the average mean of their effort in Bataknese maintenance is 2.7294. The results suggest that despite good effort to maintain their ancestor language, the research shows their competency in Bataknese language remains low.

Even though they shows negative competency in their Bataknese language as their daily communication, they still feel proud and not ashamed of being a Bataknese family. All the interviewee made various effort to do so.

5.2 Suggestion

The data and the result in this research give reference and opportunity to other researcher who wants to do further analyzing in Bataknese-Javanese families attitude towards Bataknese language and their efforts to maintain the heritage language. The writer gives a suggestion that the other researchers can analyze in more details about this research, they can do further research in other region/area, so the data can be more valid.

Moreover, this research also has weaknesses in collecting and analyzing the data. She was unable to collect further information about the data that can be more useful. Therefore, it can be more challenging for other researchers to do more research to the Bataknese-Javanese families about their attitude towards the heritage language maintenance in other region/area.
