

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

In this chapter, the writer discussed the conclusion that could be taken and suggestions for further research.

5.1. Conclusion

For creating flashcards for children, the writer investigated the themes and concepts that children mostly like to learn. The writer also used the good criteria on creating the product. The writer tried her best in creating the flashcards that would be suitable for the children.

This research aimed to find out children's opinion on the writer's product that helps young learners to develop their English vocabulary. According to the data result obtained from the questionnaire that was distributed by the writer in SD Masehi Jepara, it could be concluded that the children gave a very positive response on the product itself. The children seem to have fun playing with the flashcards while the writer did the product testing. They gave a very good impression on the writer's product.

The result of this research could be used as a consideration for parents or teachers to familiarize or introduce English in an early age. In this globalization era, it is important for children to start learning English. These flashcards can be a good media for young learners to learn English vocabulary because it had an attractive illustration, bright colors, fun activity and many more.

5.2. Suggestion

Because of the writer's limitation, the flashcards used for the product testing was still in prototype. The writer could not finish the production because of the lack of time.

For further research, it is better to develop flashcards with other topics and themes to make the children interested and excited in learning English vocabulary. In the future, hopefully the flashcards will be available for higher level and more variation of activities are present.
