ABSTRACT

Jargon is within the domain of Sociolinguistics. Jargon is an occupational and secret language, so it occurs in the occupational fields and only the people who work in the same field can understand it. The writer has found that it exists in Indonesian Police Institution. The research aims to discover the jargons that are used in Indonesian Police Institution, and then analyze it semantically to deal with denotation and connotation meanings, and morphologically to find out its word formation process. So, the research conducted within the domain of Sociolinguistics, Semantics, and Morphology.

The research belongs to qualitative research. The data were collected by searching the jargons on internet and newspaper, and then the writer validated the data with the police officer. In this case the data were validated with police officer from Humas (Public Relation Department). The writer discovered 106 jargons. The writer found out that there are 11 jargons (10.38%) have denotation meaning and 9 jargons (8.49%) have connotation meaning. The writer also found that there are 86 jargons (81.13%) that cannot be analyzed semantically whether they belong to denotation or connotation meaning because they consist of numbers and letters. For word formation process, there are 14 jargons (13.21%) with one process, and then 4 jargons (3.77%) with two processes, and finally 88 jargons (83.02%) with no process.

The purpose of this thesis is also to classify the jargons. The writer classified them into three parts, the first is jargons related to Sandi Huruf (Letter Codes), second is jargons related to Sandi Pangkat Kesatuan (Corps Position Codes), and the last is jargons related to Sandi Angka (Number Codes).

ABSTRAK

Jargon adalah bagian dari ilmu Sosiolinguistik. Jargon adalah bahasa yang berhubungan dengan pekerjaan dan merupakan bahasa yang rahasia, sehingga bahasa itu hanya ada di dalam lingkungan pekerjaan dan hanya orang-orang yang bekerja dalam bidang yang sama yang dapat memahami itu. Dalam hal ini, penulis menemukan juga dalam lingkungan Institusi Kepolisian Indonesia. Tujuan dari penelitian ini adalah untuk menemukan apa saja jargon yang digunakan di dalam Institusi Kepolisian Indonesia, dan kemudian menganalisisnya secara semantik untuk menemukan makna denotasi dan konotasinya, dan secara morfologi untuk menemukan proses pembentukan kata-katanya. Jadi, penelitian ini berhubungan dengan sosiolinguistik, semantik, dan morfologi.

Penelitian ini termasuk di dalam penelitian kualitatif. Data-data dikumpulkan dengan cara mencari jargon-jargon tersebut melalui internet dan koran, kemudian penulis mencocokkan data tersebut dengan petugas kepolisian. Dalam hal ini data-datanya dicocokan dengan petugas polisi dari bagian Hubungan Masyarakat. Penulis menemukan 106 jargon. Penulis menemukan ada 11 jargon yang mempunyai makna denotasi and 9 jargon dengan makna konotasi. Penulis juga menemukan ada 86 jargon yang tidak bisa dianalisa secara Semantic apakah mereka masuk ke dalam makna denotasi atau konotasi karena mereka hanya terdiri dari huruf dan angka. Untuk pembentukan kata-katanya, ada 14 jargon dengan satu proses, kemudian 4 jargon dengan dua proses, dan akhirnya ada 88 jargon tanpa proses. Jargon. Jargon dengan tanpa proses adalah yang paling dominan, kemudian disusul dengan jargon dengan satu proses, dan yang terakhir yang paling sedikit dengan dua proses.

Tujuan dari penelitian ini juga untuk mengkelompokkan jargon. Penulis mengkelompokkan mereka di dalam tiga bagian, yang pertama jargon yang berhubungan dengan sandi angka, kedua jargon yang berhubungan dengan Sandi Pangkat Kesatuan, dan yang terakhir jargon yang berhubungan dengan Sandi Angka.
