sources of financial support for the project should be disclosed.
Fundamental Errors in Published Works: If the author discovers a significant error or inaccuracy in the submitted manuscript, then the author should promptly notify the journal editor or publisher and cooperate with the editor to retract or correct the paper.
Hazards and Human or Animal Subjects: The author should clearly identify in the manuscript if the work involves chemicals, procedures or equipment that have any unusual hazards inherent in their use.
Duties of Editor
Publication Decisions: Based on the review report of the editorial board, the editor can accept, reject, or request modifications to the manuscript. The validation of the work in question and its importance to researchers and readers must always drive such decisions. The editors may be guided by the policies of the journal's editorial board and constrained by such legal requirements as shall then be in force regarding libel, copyright infringement and plagiarism. The editors may confer with other editors or reviewers in making this decision. Editors have to take responsibility for everything they publish and should have procedures and policies in place to ensure the quality of the material they publish and maintain the integrity of the published record.
Review of Manuscripts: Editor must ensure that each manuscript is initially evaluated by the editor for originality. The editor should organize and use peer review fairly and wisely. Editors should explain their peer review processes in the information for authors and also indicate which parts of the journal are peer reviewed. Editor should use appropriate peer reviewers for papers that are considered for publication by selecting people with sufficient expertise and avoiding those with conflicts of interest.

Peer-Review Policy

Lifescience Global follows the double-blind peer-review method for submissions of all manuscripts to its journals. It is the kind of peer-reviewing in which the identity of the authors and reviewers is not revealed in the submitted manuscript.

All submitted articles are subject to an extensive peer-review consultation with the Journal's Editorial Board and independent external referees. All manuscripts are assessed rapidly and the decision taken by the Journal's Editor-in-Chief based on all the peer-reviewers' comments, which are then communicated to the author(s).

Submissions from the Editor-in-Chief and Editorial Board Members will share free peer-review and be presented to different editors to determine acceptance.

All efforts are executed to expedite the peer-review process leading to timely publication.
