AN ANALYSIS OF MOOD ELEMENTS
IN CASUAL CONVERSATION

A THESIS

by

Yunita Graha Susanti
Student Number : 01.80.0028

ENGLISH LETTERS STUDY PROGRAMME
FACULTY OF LETTERS
SOEGIJAPRANATA CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY
SEMARANG

2005
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First of all, the writer would like to thank her wonderful savior, Jesus Christ, for allowing her to finish the research. The writer realizes that without His mercy and grace, the writer would never be able to pass through the process that would take her higher. The writer is also truly indebted to her major sponsor: Henny Hartono, SS, M.Pd and her Co. sponsor : Emilia Ninik Aydawati, S.P, for their brilliant friendship and their amazing patience during the joyful and painful months of compiling the research. Without their guidance and advices, finishing the research would never come true.

The writer would also like to thank her family, for their prayers and encouragement, their unbelievable support that make the writer can stand on her own feet. There is also indescribable feeling of grateful to the very best friends of the writer : Yenni and Winda, who make her believe that love does not cost a thing ; Tina for many bothering times in your boarding house ; Evi, Desy, Marini, Erfin, Rani and Nia all the writer’s friends that can not be mentioned one by one ; thank you for your friendship. For my ‘Big’ brothers, Tweety and Snowy, there would always be a special place in my heart for you. May god bless you all, now and always.

Last but not least, the writer would like to thank all the participants who helped her in compiling the research, for all the people that helped her in making her dreams come true. The writer hopes that this research would be able to help and encourage the readers, to be more aware and realize that learning English is fun!!

Semarang, June 2005
It's all about You

Take Your head around the world see what You get
From Your mind write Your soul down word for word
See who's Your friend who is kind
It's almost like a disease I know soon You will be

Over the lies You'll be strong
You'll be rich in love and You'll carry on
But No...oh No...No...
You won't be his mine

Take your straight line for a curve
Make it stretch the same old line
Try to find if it was worth what You spent
Why You're guilty for the way You feeling now
It's almost like a disease I know soon You will be

Take Your self out to the curb
Sit and wait a fool for life
It's almost like a disease
I know soon You Will Be

For You alone,
who can do all things,
bigger and higher
than I had ever thought and expected.
TABLE OF CONTENTS

PAGE OF LITTLE ........................................................................................................ i
PAGE OF APPROVAL................................................................. ii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENT........................................................................ iv
TABLE OF CONTENTS ............................................................................... vi
ABSTRACT................................................................................................. ix
ABSTRAK ................................................................................................. x

CHAPTER I INTRODUCTION ........................................................................... 1
  1.1. Background .................................................................................. 1
  1.2. Scope of the Study ...................................................................... 4
  1.3. Problem Formulation ................................................................ 4
  1.4. Objective of the Study ............................................................... 4
  1.5. Significance of the Study ............................................................ 5
  1.6. Definition of Terms .................................................................. 5

CHAPTER II LITERATURE REVIEW .......................................................... 7
  2.1. Grammar ..................................................................................... 7
  2.2. Functional Grammar ................................................................. 8
  2.3. Clause as an Exchange ............................................................... 10
  2.4. MOOD ......................................................................................... 13
    2.4.1. Subject – Finite .................................................................. 14
    2.4.2. Residue ................................................................................. 18
      2.4.2.1. Predicator .................................................................... 18
      2.4.2.2. Complement ................................................................. 19
      2.4.2.4. Adjunct ...................................................................... 19
2.5. Casual Conversation ........................................ 22

CHAPTER III RESEARCH METHODOLOGY .............................. 25
3.1. Data Collection .................................................. 25
  3.1.1. Participants .................................................. 25
  3.1.2. Instruments .................................................. 27
  3.1.3. Procedure .................................................. 27
3.2. Data Analysis .................................................... 28
  3.2.1. Transcribing the Data ...................................... 28
  3.2.2. Analysis on MOOD Application .......................... 28
  3.2.3. Make a List and Count the Correct and Incorrect
         Applications ............................................... 29
  3.2.4. Interpretation .............................................. 30

CHAPTER IV DATA ANALYSIS AND INTERPRETATION ................. 31
4.1. Conversation 1 .................................................. 31
  4.1.1. Correct Applications of MOOD Elements in
         Conversation 1 .............................................. 31
  4.1.2. Incorrect Applications of mood Elements in Conversation 1 .............................................. 36
4.2. Conversation 2 .................................................. 39
  4.2.1. Correct Application of Mood elements in
         Conversation 2 .............................................. 39
  4.2.2. Incorrect Application of Mood elements in Conversation 2 .............................................. 42